How to become an #RWTFundraiser

Thank you for choosing to support Radnorshire Wildlife Trust!

Together with our members and volunteers, we work to protect wildlife across Radnorshire, both on our 18 nature reserves and through our work with others.

What is an #RWTFundraiser?

An RWT Fundraiser is anyone who fundraises for Radnorshire Wildlife Trust to help nature! After your fundraising is completed, you will receive a certificate and a badge from us!

Our supporters are the backbone of what we do. We simply couldn't do it without you! This pack aims to share fundraising ideas to inspire anyone to raise money and support our vision.

Did you know?

You can participate in a general fundraiser to contribute to the Trust's overall fundraising efforts, or select a specific project to fundraise for.

What could your fundraising donations contribute to?

Fundraising Ideas

Bake sale

Almost everyone loves cake! A nature themed cake sale will not only be a tasty treat but also a great way to showcase those creative baking talents!

Plant sale

With a bit of preparation, home grown seeds, bulbs and cuttings can be sold on. You could also find plants at a reduced price, revitalize them, and sell on for a profit!

Run for RWT

Go the distance and get outside! Run or walk, 5K, 10K or even 100K. You can reach your goal over a day, a week, or even months.

Litter pick

What better way to fundraise for nature than directly helping it! Not sure how? Get in touch and we can help you get started!

Games night

Organize a games night! It could be a pub quiz, board games, card games and you could add a raffle to raise even more money!

Bring and buy

All you need is a table, a cash float, and donated items. Someone else's pre-loved item could be someone's new-loved item!

Share a skill

Do you or someone you know have a skill you can share? It could be anything from crafting, dancing, teaching a language or playing an instrument. Collect donations and learn together!

8

Garden party

Sunny days are perfect for picnics, and combined with good food, drinks and company, you're sure to have fun. Have your donation bucket ready!

Some other ideas...

Talent show, wildlife bingo, treasure hunt, fancy dress, auction of gifts or promises, giving something up for a month, or any other event or activity of your choice!

Top tips for success

Plan

Before you start anything, you need to think about...who, what, when, where and weather! Who do you want involved? What event or activity do you want to run? When and where do you want it to take place? Will it be indoors or outdoors? Rain or shine, be prepared and think about how you can make sure your event or activity can still take place!

Permission and safety

Radnorshire Wildlife Trust cannot accept liability for accidents, incidents or damaged property as a result of your fundraising. It is your responsibility to ensure the safety of yourself and others. Always do a risk assessment, alert people of allergens if you provide food or drink and you may want to take out insurance depending on the event. Fundraising in a public place requires a license from the local authority. Fundraising on private land (school, workplace etc.) does not need a license, but permission is needed from the organization or owner.

Promote

Spread the word about your chosen fundraiser (however you want) and if you're running an event, make sure to share the time, place, date and location and why people should get involved! Be that bringing people together or inspiring others with your challenge, remember to also share the vision and aims of Radnorshire Wildlife Trust to inspire people to donate and be part of our journey.
